

DRINKS AND VENDING MACHINES

Warwick design has a long history of drinks and vending design. One of the first of about twenty projects we undertook was to create Kenco Singles and the brew mechanism and a variety of machines for serving coffee, tea and chocolate. This went on to become Tassimo, with which we are occasionally still involved.

Watercoolers is also another area of expertise, designing a number of machines including oxygenated water, disposable water trails, pre-cooled bottles and many other innovations.

We also supported our clients with the production technology to enable them to
